THE STANDING FOR JUSTICE CAMPAIGN

While immigrant survivors of domestic violence and sexual assault are under attack, ASISTA is Standing for Justice—this spring, and in the days to come. Join us in this national movement to fight the human rights crisis underway.

SAFETY & JUSTICE FOR IMMIGRANT SURVIVORS OF VIOLENCE

The problem: Immigrant victims of domestic abuse and sexual assault in the U.S. face unimaginable barriers to safety and justice. Unsure if it is safe to go to an emergency room or shelter, request a restraining order, or dial 911, they often fear that reporting the abuse will result in deportation. Rapists, abusers, and other predators exploit this vulnerability, targeting those who are far from home, unfamiliar with the U.S., and terrified of separation from their families. ASISTA leads the fight to ensure that these survivors can access safety and justice. We are staunch defenders of immigrant victims' rights, supporting the on-the-ground advocates and lawyers who represent them.

How ASISTA makes a difference: Combining legal and policy savvy with creative alliances and movement-building, we: Provide expert training, resources, & individualized case consultation to attorneys and advocates, to help their survivor clients' cases succeed in court • Serve as a liaison and intervene with our government contacts to stop survivors from being unfairly deported • Push back on harmful policies that endanger immigrant victims, advise the field on how to mitigate the harm, and advance policies instead that provide safety and justice • Arm attorneys and advocates with cutting edge strategies to address the latest developments affecting immigrant survivors, and • Develop and support litigation campaigns to fight government practices that unjustly deport victims.
